install trap rock below the level of the catch basin to avoid silt going into the basin. In its present condition and level, runoff water during heavy storms backs up in the swale and runs into his cellar. He plans to seed the area that has been graded. He also agreed to remove the pile of dirt next to the catch basin. He mentioned that the catch basin needed cleaning out. Brad and Brian went to the basin and Brian said he would take care of it. The pile of dirt was moved to the back of the house which is away from the swale.
